

FUSE 2019 Year in Review

During the past year, FUSE executive fellows have worked diligently alongside our local government partners to create innovative solutions across a range of issues — economic and workforce development, healthcare, housing, public safety, justice reform, climate change, and education. We measure their collective impact in three key areas:

Community Impact: Developing effective programs for residents

Culture of Innovation: Supporting change management processes

Building Capacity: Expanding tools and talent for problem solving

These are the stories and numbers that capture some of our impact during the past year.
